All Sorts of Paragraphs.
 The Memphis Avalanche, of Monday, says: "We understand that deposits in gold were made into the Union and Planters' Banks, Saturday evening last, to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars."

24 Charles, I'm dining off a loin of beef, asked the name of it and being told it was the best, he said: "For its excellence I will knight it, and I shall be called a knight." 25 "Why are the young ladies of Louisiana in printed slips?" Kase they are La. belles. 26 Men and gold are each other's value. 27 Happiness can be made quite as well of cheap material as of dear. 28 An attack of gout has caused Mr. Charles Kase's temporary retirement from the stage. 29 The "Kase" has been invented for the comfort of travelers. It is a small, portable, cushioned seat, with a muslin plaster on the head, which draws the heat through the whole body. 30 The Kase is sold by the Agency - We could walk through life as through the Swiss mountains, where a hasty word may bring down an avalanche. 31 Mr. Nettleton adopted the following as a maxim for the government of his life: "Do all the good you can in the word and make as little noise as possible." 32 Theodore Hook, when dining with the author of a work called "Three Words to the Drunkard," was asked to review it. "Oh, my dear fellow, what I have done is to fill in three words, 'ass the bottle.'" 33 An attorney, about to furnish a bill of fare to a party, said to a friend: "I shall make it as light as he could." "Am!" replied the

McCurry, "that's what you say to your foreman, 'I'm sorry, but I can't make my bread'."

McCurry: We learn that Robertson was shot and killed by Dan McCurry, near the Forks of Ilkhorh, in Franklin county, on Thursday last—the quarrel between them originated, as we are told, in a dog fight.

☞ The price of a horse whipping has been determined in Chicago. In a case between two Germans, Mr. Meyer had to pay $1,000 damage for having lacerated the back of another Mr. Meyer.

☞ Rev. Dr. Stuart Robinson, of this city, is announced to lecture before the Indianapolis Lyceum during the ensuing winter.

In writing a note lying on the ground, but new that it was a counterfeit, and walked about without picking it up. He told Smithers that he had been deceived by the counterfeit.

"Do you know, Digg, we have committed a very grave offense?"

"Way, way, way, I don't!"

"You have passed a counterfeit; bill, knowing to be such," said Smithers, with a smile, and a wink.

The office of City Marshall of Cincinnati is worth from $10,000 to 12,000 per annum—something more than the same place is valued at here.

Well, Alane, how do you get along with that stupid love of yours? Did you succeed in getting him?

"O yes, I got rid of him very easily; I married him, and have no lover now."

Woman's constant torment—Dust. —Dust is the Indian's great plague.—A woman continually crying the name.

Sale or Race Horses.—In addition to the sale of Henson, Kinsley, Hayes, and Edie, Moore, previously noticed, we learn that John M. Cline has disposed of his two horses, Waterloo and Charles Morgan, to T. B. Poindexter, of Louisiana. We did not hear the exact price paid, but understand was about $4,000 for the two. Mr. Poindexter is a well known sportsman, and has just purchased a bay, silver, Naggie Clark, to J. L. & W. J. Brad-

There was a sale (in Philadelphia, Wednesday, of thirteen shares Bank of Kentucky Stock at $115.

DISAPPEARANCE OF A CASHIER.—The cashier of the People's Bank at Richmond, Ind., Mr. James McCorkle, recently left that place rather mysteriously. His family went on a visit to some distant relatives, and he followed them one Sunday night, disposing of his household goods beforehand. The affair has caused considerable talk, and many surmises as to the cause of his sudden leaving are made. Nothing wrong had been detected in his bank accounts. Mr. M. stood high

POLICE COURT.

GEORGE W. JOHNSTON, Judge.

FRIDAY, OCT. 26.

CONCEALED WEAPON.—Wm. Williamson, from Baltimore, New Orleans, and other hard places, was drunk and disorderly, and having a pistol in his pocket. He was held to bail in $300 for his good behavior three months.

MORE DRUNKENNESS.—Daniel Mallory and John are were separately taken and each presented to the double chair for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The cases were pretty well nipped in the bud. The cases were pretty well nipped in the bud, in fact, they didn't deny, but acknowledged the corn, and the drunk, too, and bail $200 was required of each for their good behavior two months. The bail was not given in either case, and the parties were committed to jail.

A peace warrant case was sued out by a hand of the Cheesman against the mate, who, he says, threatened to chop him in two. The case was

NEW ALIBY BAKING UP THE WRONG TREE—The New Albany papers, the other day, accused a couple of the watch of kidnapping a boy, and named the supposed parties, but missed the right names. They pointed out the wrong names, especially Sanford Deering, who knew nothing of the affair, and had no hand in it. He says they were working up the wrong tree.

THE HARVEST IN ITALY—The Italians are reaping over an abundant yield of grapes, figs and peaches, apropos of which the Florence correspondent of the Providence Journal says:

In spite of all the poetry of grape gathering and grape eating, even in Italy, we find that the second good sized bunch will set the teeth on age. In our untraveled experience, we imagine that the clusters which we see in our hot houses and horticultural exhibitions but imperfectly typify the ponderous development and luxuriant abundance of this fruit in grape growing countries. I have not yet seen, either in the markets or grapeyards of Southern Europe, anything that could compare with the fruit displayed at our
